TRAINING ANNOUNCEMENT

Tactical Emergency Casualty Care Fire and EMS Response to High Threat Situations

This is not an EMT-Tactical Course, rather an introduction to TECC Principles and concepts*
(Non-Core CME hours will be available for participation.)

The Tactical Emergency Casualty Care (TECC) guidelines is a set of best practice recommendations for casualty management during civilian tactical and rescue operations. TECC is an all hazards approach to medical care that can be utilized in daily responses to Fire, EMS and Law Enforcement. The goal of TECC is to teach readily deployable lifesaving interventions and point of wounding care in atypical high threat emergency responses where minutes saved can mean the difference between life or death. This 4 hour training will discuss the phases of care in a high threat environment, and provide guidance on the medical management of preventable deaths at or near the point of wounding to minimize provider risk while maximizing patient benefit. The roles and integration of Fire, EMS and Law Enforcement in active shooter responses including rescue task force concepts will be covered. This course provides hands on, out of your seat, training which includes use of tourniquets, wound packing and patient extraction.
